LOCAL GROUP AIDS DAM FIGHT

7 KILLED, 25 SERIOUSLY INJURED

PALESTINE, Tex., April 24.—UP—The town of Slocum 18 miles from here was totally destroyed today by a tornado. Not a building was left standing in the little farming community of 300 inhabitants.

Seven persons were known to have been killed, 25 were critically injured and many more were hurt slightly. Many were unaccounted for tonight as Red Cross workers searched the ruins.

Estimates tonight placed the damage at more than $250,000. Communication lines in the vicinity of Slocum were swept out of commission.

Red Cross Aids

Red Cross workers from Palestine rushed food and supplies to the stricken area tonight. Shelter tents and army cots were being provided for the scores being left homeless by the twister.

Hundreds of sightseers pouring in from neighboring towns, added to the confusion and made rescue work doubly difficult.

Cripple Is Hero

Thomas J. Gatlin, crippled principal of the village school, probably saved the lives of 150 pupils when he ordered them to lie down on the floor under their desks. Two school houses were demolished but Claude McIver, was the only pupil killed.

The storm cut a swath a mile wide and more than 10 miles long. A school house at Phillips Springs, a few miles from Slocum was destroyed, but no casualties resulted.

Ban Placed On Convict Auditors

SAN QUENTIN STATE PRISON, Calif., April 24.—UP—Convicts will be kept away from the auditing department of the penitentiary in the future, Warden James B. Holohan announced today as Gilbert Fratius, a trusty, remained in solitary confinement for forging prison checks.

A re-check showed that the prison had lost at least $200 from the plot conducted by Fratius, former bank employe in Los Angeles, and an accomplice in San Francisco, believed to be a former prisoner and still sought.

Fratius covered checks with transparent mucilage before they were filled out by Holohan so that he could melt all the writing except the warden's signature from the paper.

These were outstanding problems brought before the meeting of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce directors yesterday noon at the Hotel Carquinez.

Parr Leaves

Parr, acting as Richmond's traveling salesman, left last night for a selling tour of the eastern states to bring new industries to the city.

Parr will be gone 22 days, will visit 12 cities and will interview 45 leading industrial heads, in addition to representing the city of Richmond at the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington, and interviewing President Herbert Hoover and War department officials in connection with the location of the army air base in Richmond.

He will bear official credentials both from the city of Richmond and from the local chamber of commerce, to enter into all necessary negotiations, both in the matter of new industries and in the work of bringing the air base to the city.

Five Prospects

According to a statement by Parr at yesterday's meeting of the directors of the Chamber of commerce he has detailed information of five distinct industrial prospects with the officials of which he has already had interviews that lead him to believe Richmond can satisfy their needs for a Pacific coast plant.

300 FLEE AS DIKE BREAKS

QUINCY, Ill., April 24.—UP—Three hundred residents of the south Quincy district fled from their homes to higher levels today when a dike along the Mississippi river gave away under the pounding of flood waters.

The swollen river rushed through a gap 100 feet wide and spread out over 5,000 acres of rich garden lands. More than 80 homes were deserted as the water rose above their foundations and first floors.

Vigilance was renewed tonight along a 60 mile waterfront as torrential rains continued to fall. Reports from Hannibal, Mo., to the south, said 50 blocks were under water at Canton, Mo., 12 miles north of Quincy, 150 homes were flooded.

The rainfall was accompanied by deep rambling thunder and blinding flashes of lightning, adding to the terror of those who had been driven from their homes.

The rising of tributary streams was viewed with fear by flood sufferers in this region. The Mississippi gauged 21.6 feet here today. A further rise would be almost certain to cause breaks in the levees which have been pounded by flood waters for almost a month.

RAPID GROWTH SHOWN BY RICHMOND SCHOOLS

Richmond schools are uniting this week in observing Public Schools week. The purpose of the week is to give the parents and patrons of the school an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the activities of the school.

Richmond and vicinity have had a rapid growth, and as a consequence, it has been necessary to build a school system to meet the requirements of the rapidly increasing population. There are now in operation eleven elementary schools, two junior high schools and one senior high school. 232 teachers are employed.

In spite of the fact that the Richmond School district and the Richmond Union High School district have carried on an active building campaign and have built many fine schools, today there are but few vacant rooms. The new high school, which at the time of building seemed so large and extensive, is almost fully occupied, and the latest elementary school, the Woodrow Wilson, is crowded.

The Lincoln school is used as the administrative building for the department, and here the board of education, the high school board and the superintendent of schools have offices. It is also the center for supervisors health officers, recreational officers and the place for holding all teachers' conferences.

Richmond school's enjoy splendid co-operation of patrons. Each

BAY BARRIER BOND ISSUE SOUGHT

SACRAMENTO, April 25.—UP—A sub-committee of the state water commission was appointed early this morning to investigate the possibility of inserting the bay barrier project into the proposals of the water commission now under consideration before the legislature. This committee includes Senator Will R. Sharkey of Martinez, Assemblyman Bradford Chiffenod of Tracy, Assemblyman Burt Snyder of Santa Cruz and Assemblyman Robert Fisher of Carlotta.

This group will meet today to find if there is any way under which the proposed salt water barrier could be incorporated in the measure.

Three men spoke before the all night session of the committee at length urging the construction of the barrier. They were: Casey Carlson of the Martinez Chamber of Commerce, William Buchanan, chairman of the Contra Costa county board of supervisors and Thomas H. Means, prominent irrigation engineer of Oakland.

Contra Costa county boosters including a delegation from Richmond headed by Mayor Mattie A. Chandler were in Sacramento last night fighting before an assembly committee hearing for the inclusion of the bay barrier project in the proposed state bond issue for a water conservation program.

The Crittenden bill proposes a $160,000,000 bond issue for state water development, but eliminates the bay barrier. The sight of the local delegation before the committee was to add $50,000,000 to the issue which would provide funds for the construction of the barrier across Carquinez straits.

Both the Oakland and San Francisco chambers of commerce were represented at the session last night in aiding the delegation from this county in its battle for the project.

Those from Richmond in attendance at the meeting included Mayor Chandler, F. A. Hoffman, city engineer, Ralph Bergen, Harry Hays and others.

OAKLAND, April 24.—UP—A husband suspected by police of shooting his wife because she took a wallet from his pocket was detained for investigation at the police station here tonight.

Mrs. Nettie Etta Olmstead, the wife, was critically wounded.

Police obtained most of their evidence on the shooting from a neighbor, Perry Simpson, to whom Mrs. Olmstead fled before the shot was fired.

Simpson said the husband, Stanley Olmstead, 24, had pressed the revolver against his wife's side and demanded that she tell him where his wallet was, according to police. Authorities continued that they had learned Olmstead forced the wife to crawl on her hands and knees to their apartment after she was wounded and that she recovered the wallet from under a couch.

EVANGELIST UNABLE TO RECALL'

SACRAMENTO April 24—(U.P.)—Those who have watched the impeachment trial of Judge Carlos Hardy with the hope that the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnaping case would be brought into the proceedings were partially satisfied tonight when the trial reached its climax with the titian haired evangelist herself taking the witness stand.

The senate chamber and the gallery above were packed to capacity when Mrs. McPherson was brought into the room by a court attache and led to the witness box.

Smiling and entirely at ease the evangelist took the center of the stage and the crowd waited.

But those expecting sensation went away disappointed. Mrs. McPherson was kept on the stand but a brief five minutes and in that time answered to to the questions of Assemblyman Walter Little consisted mostly of "I can't remember.

SACRAMENTO, April 24.—Escorted by a sergeant at arms of the state senate Aimee Semple McPherson, noted Los Angeles evangelist, arrived here tonight from San Francisco to testify at the impeachment trial of Judge Carlso S. Hardy.

Turmoil that had existed in the capitol when the revivalist could not be found a day, subsided at once and the board of managers conducting prosecution of the jurist said they would call her to the witness stand soon. A special night session was to prevail when she reached here.

Mrs. McPherson was brought here by Sgt-at-arms Harry Carno, who refused to disclose exactly where he had found her or where he had received the information by which to locate her.

Aimee Semple McPherson was being sough throughout northern California late today to testify at a hearing of the Hardy im-

DRY OFFICIALS GETS SENTENCE

SAN FRANCISCO April 24—(U.P.)—Two years in federal prison was the sentence administered to Sigbard B. Johnson, former skipper of the coast guard cutter Cahokia here today, for perjured testimony in the trial of sailors on the rum ship Coal Harbor.

In passing sentence Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure reprimanded Johnson as a man "who might have sent 14 British seamen to jail and caused serious international complications between this countr yand Great Britain.

U. S. Attorney Hatfield pleaded for leniency claiming he, himself was not convinced that Johnson was not acting "under direction of his superiors in the matter."

Testimony of Johnson at the trial was that he had not taken radio bearings before the seizure and did not know the Coal Harbor was beyond the 12 mile limit. He later admitted, he had secured the bearing which showed the seized vessel was 23 miles off the coast.

MINORITY PROBLEMS

In a recent article touching on European problems as related to submerged minorities of population Frank H. Simonds, the noted writer on international affairs pointed out how the changing of boundaries in Europe had created new minority problems in place of the old ones. Two chief points of friction are between Poland and Germany and Hungary and Roumania although there are many others any of which is very apt to cause trouble in the future.

Continuing, Mr. Simonds says: "In theory the league is responsible. It is a body to which by the very peace treaties, the minority question must be referred. But in practice what can the league do? In the recent notorious case of the Germans in Upper Silesia how is it possible to decide between the Polish claim that the German minority is an agency of Germany—seeking to resist the consolidation of Polish territory to keep open the question of Upper Silesia, against a later German attempt to recover it—and the equally impressive proof offered by Germany that the Poles are persecuting the German population in a thousand ways, always possible to the ruling race?"

Here is one of the typical European problems of the present, apt to become more acute in the future, set out in clear and lucid language. The League of Nations theoretically is responsible for settling troubles growing out of the difficulties of minority populations in the various countries of Europe. It is, of course, impossible to draw boundaries which would make it possible for all the Germans to live in Germany, all the Poles in Poland, all the Hungarians in Hungary and the Roumanians in Roumania and so on. Populations are so intermingled at certain points that no matter where the boundaries are drawn there will always be a submerged minority or other, depending upon who draws the boundary lines. And since there are always minorities there will always be political troubles in Europe.

Rather than creating a number of new states in Europe through the Versailles treaty it would doubtless have been better to have gone so far as possible toward creating a United States of Europe. But the statesmen evidently found this impracticable in view of the many groups, languages and age old traditions in Europe. And so they tried to remake the map and eliminate minorities. What they really accomplished was to erase some minorities and create others in their stead.

Now the principal lesson in all of this from the American standpoint is that when it comes to settling these European problems the United States is much better out of it. We have no direct interest in the Polish Corridor or in Transylvania, and so by attempting to help settle difficulties of this kind, when trouble arises we are apt to get ourselves involved with one faction or the other without doing ourselves or the other fellow any good. Certainly we will be better equipped to act impartially if we are not bound in advance by membership in the League of Nations and its international complications. That is why the American people have repeatedly registered at the polls their desire that Uncle Sam remain at home and mind his own business until he sees a chance where he can do some good for the world without sacrificing his own traditions. Our statesmen have enough problems to solve at home without bothering about European corridors and spheres of influence.

Canada is said to be worrying because an increase in our tariff may shut off Canadian imports to the United States. Canada should worry. We already have an embargo on one of her principal commodities and it seems to get across the border just the same.

FANNIE SCORES IN MOVIE OF 'MY MAN'

Theatergoers acclaimed a new screen star at the Fox-California theater when Fannie Brice, most famous comedienne of the stage, made her film debut in "My Man," a special production of Warner Bros.

For Miss Brice, heretofore regarded principally as a purveyor of comedy parts, reveals a dramatic talent that is a revelation, as it was unsuspected, and discloses the star as a player of unusual emotional depth. In the main, however, "My Man" gives to the famous Fanny an expansive opportunity to display her delicious comedy, and she takes advantage of it to the fullest extent.

"My Man" is a tenderly appealing story with much of mirth and a tear or two and it reveals its changing moods Fannie moves with an abandon and charm which is peculiarly her own. She is seen first as an East Side factory worker, mother to her little brother and grown sister, entertainer extraordinary to all the girls in the shop, whom she delights with antics at each noon hour. A man whom Fannie first sees at his work as a resplendent velope demonstrator in a candy store window, is beckoned to a better job by her, and when he finally asks her hand in marriage, life seems rosy. The sister however, is planning to go on and the eve of Fannie's wedding she finds the two in each other's arms. They have succeeded in spite of the darkness of their predicament— winning happiness and a name in Broadway lights —or lost incidents of a many dramatic power and great beauty.

The supporting cast of the production is altogether satisfying including as it do Guinn Williams, Edna Murphy, Andre de Segurola, Edward Tarbo, Betty Seay, Ann Brady, Arthur Hoyt and Clarissa Selwynne. "My Man" was directed by Archie L. Mayo, and the scenario was written by Robert Lord from an original story by Mark Canfield.

Woman Injured By Small Gun

Mrs. Jessie Gray, 22, of Oakland, was treated at the Alameda County general hospital early Sunday morning for a flesh wound in the left arm.

According to her story to the police, Mr. Gray was examining a small caliber pistol while visiting in the rooms of Wallace A. McDonald, a painter at 510 Macdonald avenue. She declared that he, a roomer in the same house, had left the loaded gun there.

McDonald told the same story, adding that the gun was owned by his brother and that he was about to return it. He told police that Mrs. Gray picked it up while the gun was accidentally discharged.

ORDINANCE NO. 612

AMENDING SECTION 26 OF ORDINANCE 258 AS AMENDED BY ORDINANCE 629, AND ALSO AMENDING SECTION 43 OF ORDINANCE 258.

The Council of the City of Richmond do ordain as follows:

Section 1. Section 26 of Ordinance 258 as amended by Ordinance 629 is hereby amended to read as follows:

SECTION 26. The following unit loads shall be taken as the minimum live loads in pounds per square foot to be used in the design of buildings for the occupancies listed, and loads at least equal shall be assumed for use not being in this section but which create or accommodate similar loadings.

Apartment houses, dwellings, hospital wards and private rooms, hotel guest rooms and private corridors, school rooms with fixed seats, forty (40) pounds.

Auditoriums with fixed seats, theaters and galleries with fixed seats, offices, tool rooms, fifty (50) pounds.

Reading rooms of libraries, marquise, sixty (60) pounds.

Light manufacturing, seventy-five (75) pounds.

Auditoriums, balconies and galleries with movable seats, dance halls, drill rooms, exterior balconies, fire escapes, garages, gymnasiums, hall, drill rooms, exterior balconies, fire escapes, garages, gymnasiums, public corridors and public rooms of hospitals, hotels, and schools, corridors of libraries, loft buildings, composing and linotype rooms of printing buildings, reviewing stand and bleachers, skating rinks, stairways, outside, restaurants, retail and wholesale stores for light merchandise, one hundred (100) pounds.

Stack rooms of libraries, light storage buildings, one hundred and twenty-five (125) pounds.

Heavy manufacturing, load to be determined from proposed use or occupancy, but never less than one hundred and twenty-five (125) pounds.

Armories, press rooms of printing plants, one hundred and fifty (150) pounds.

Sidewalks, eight hundred (800) pounds concentrated, or two hundred and fifty (250) pounds.

Heavy storage load to be determined from proposed use or occupancy, but never less than two hundred and fifty (250) pounds.

Roofs (except as hereinafter provided) with a rise of four (4) inches or less per foot of horizontal projection, shall be designed for a vertical live load of thirty (30) pounds per square foot of horizontal projection, applied to any one side. Roofs with a rise of more than four (4) inches and not exceeding twelve (12) inches per foot shall be designed for a vertical live load of twenty-five (25) pounds per square foot on the horizontal projection. In the case roofs exceeds twelve (12) inches per foot, no vertical load need be assumed, but a wind force of twenty (20) pounds per square foot of the surface acting normal to the roof surface—a factor of safety of two (2) in each case shall be provided for.

The following exceptions to assumed live loads shall be permitted in designing of columns, piers, walls, foundations, trusses and girders:

(a) No reduction of the assumed live load shall be allowed in the design of any floor, joists or beams.

A reduction of the total live load used in the design of girders receiving a certain tributary floor area shall be permitted as noted in the following schedule. This reduction shall not be carried into the live load used in the design of buildings to be used for storage purposes.

Reduction Allowed	Tributary Floor Area
0	100 sq. ft.
10	200 sq. ft.
20	300 sq. ft. or more

(b) For computing the total live load carried by columns the following reductions shall be permitted, the reductions being based on the assumed live loads applied to the entire tributary floor area:

Allowable Reductions for Warehouses and Storage Buildings

Carrying roof only	0 per cent
Carrying 1 floor and roof	0 per cent
Carrying 2 floors and roof	5 per cent
Carrying 3 floors and roof	10 per cent
Carrying 4 floors and roof	15 per cent
Carrying 5 floors and roof	20 per cent
Carrying 6 floors and roof	25 per cent

Live Load Reductions for Manufacturing Buildings, Stores and Garages

Carrying the roof	0 per cent
Carrying 1 floor and roof	0 per cent
Carrying 2 floors and roof	10 per cent
Carrying 3 floors and roof	20 per cent
Carrying 4 floors and roof	30 per cent
Carrying 4 or more floors and roof	40 per cent

Allowable Live Load Reductions for All Other Buildings

Carrying the roof	0 per cent
Carrying 1 floor and roof	0 per cent
Carrying 2 floors and roof	10 per cent
Carrying 3 floors and roof	20 per cent
Carrying 4 floors and roof	30 per cent
Carrying 5 floors and roof	40 per cent
Carrying 6 floors and roof	45 per cent
Carrying 7 floors and roof	50 per cent
Carrying 7 or more floors and roof	60 per cent

(c) The area of the footings of all buildings shall be designed in the following manner: the area of the footing which has the largest percentage of live load to total load shall be determined by dividing the total load by the allowable soil load. From the area thus obtained the dead load soil pressure of such footing is determined and the areas of all other footings of the building shall be determined on the basis of their respective dead loads only and such dead load on the basis of their respective dead loads only and such dead load per square foot in no case shall be less per square foot under any portion of any footing, due to the combined dead, live, wind and/or any horizontal forces, exceed the safe sustaining power of the soil upon which the footing rests. The total reduced live load occurring in the columns proceeding above the footing shall be the live load used in the above computation.

For purposes of design the wind pressure upon all vertical plane surfaces of all buildings and structures shall be taken at not less than thirty (30) pounds per square foot for those portions of the building not more than forty (40) feet above ground and at not less than twenty (20) pounds per square foot for those portions more than forty (40) feet above ground.

The wind pressure upon spindle tanks, sky signs, and other similar open structures and their supports shall be taken at not less than forty (40) pounds per square foot of the gross area of the plane surfaces, including ladders or stacks, this pressure shall be assumed to act in any (within reason) of the projected areas.

Where it can appear that a building or structure will be exposed to the full force of the wind throughout its entire height and that the pressure upon all vertical surfaces thus exposed shall be taken at not less than twenty (20) pounds per square foot.

The overturning moment resulting from the above calculations shall not exceed two-thirds of the dead load resisting moment.

Section 2. Section 43 of Ordinance 258 as hereto amended to read as follows:

SECTION 43. In all concrete buildings where the walls are constructed of reinforced concrete the reinforced concrete may be built in the form of piers, with connecting or curtain walls not less than six (6) inches thick, supported on the frame at each story. If the area of wall surface between any two adjacent columns and adjacent floor levels exceeds 300 square feet and is less than 400 square feet, the thickness of curtain wall shall be not less than eight (8) inches, and if the area exceeds 400 square feet the thickness of curtain wall shall be not less than twelve (12) inches.

Reinforced concrete bearing walls of uniform section shall have a thickness of not less than one twenty-fifth (1-25) of the unsupported height or length, whichever is less; provided that approved buttresses, built-in columns or piers, designed to carry all vertical loads, may be used in lieu of greater thickness.

Reinforced concrete walls shall be supported at intervals not exceeding twenty-two (22) times the wall thickness. In the top story or basement five (25) times the wall thickness. Such lateral support may be furnished by cross walls, reinforced concrete floors, cross walls of concrete buttresses or built-in columns when the framing is so designed that the wall only may be obtained by fire resistive or fire resistive construction where framing is on both sides of the wall. Bonding and anchoring shall be provided between the wall and lateral supports to resist the assumed wind force acting in an outward direction. Piers, buttresses and built-in columns relied upon for lateral support shall have sufficient strength and stability to transfer the wind force, acting in either direction, to the ground.

The maximum allowable compressive stress in reinforced concrete walls due to combined live, dead and other loads shall not exceed 0.07f'c when the unsupported height of the wall is twenty-five (25) times the thickness, nor 0.15f'c when the unsupported height of the wall is fifteen (15) times the thickness or less, with allowable stress proportional between those limits of height.

f'c equals the ultimate compressive strength of concrete at the age of twenty-eight days as determined by tests made in accordance with Standard Specifications C31-27, of the American Society of Testing Materials.

In no case shall the ultimate strength of the concrete be less than fifteen hundred (1500) pounds per square inch.

The thickness of reinforced concrete bearing walls shall be sufficient at all points to keep the combined stresses due to dead, live and/or other loads, for which the building is designed, within the limits specified above.

The minimum thickness of reinforced concrete bearing or party walls shall be not less than specified in the following table:

	Number of stories	4	3	2	1
4th story	thickness in inches	8
3rd story	" " "	10	8
2nd story	" " "	12	10	8
1st story	" " "	14	12	10	8
Basement	" " "	15	14	12	10

Such reinforced concrete walls shall have not less than one-tenth of one per cent of reinforcement in each direction, horizontally and vertically, and the bars shall be distributed equally to each face of the wall with a maximum bar spacing of twenty-four (24) inches in each face.

Additional reinforcement shall be placed around openings, and all reinforcement shall be wired at each intersection. All reinforcement shall be rigidly connected at columns and girders to the steel reinforcement of same.

When walls are built as piers and curtain walls the piers shall be calculated and constructed as columns, and the curtain wall, if built of reinforced concrete without windows, may be considered as self-supporting in which case the thickness shall be six (6) inches for the upper forty (40) feet, followed by an increase of three (3) inches in thickness for every additional forty (40) feet or fractional part thereof.

Where the outside or bearing walls are pierced by openings for doors or windows, the entire loads shall be concentrated on piers, which shall be proportioned as columns.

Columns of reinforced concrete shall have vertical steel reinforcing members, the net area of cross section of which shall be not less than one per cent and not more than five per cent of the area of concrete in cross section, and these members shall be stayed against buckling at points whose distance apart does not exceed the least diameter of column, and shall have full perfect bearings at each joint, and such joints shall occur only at floors or other points of lateral support. Columns shall not have an unsupported length exceeding twelve times the least horizontal dimension, which shall be not less than twelve inches. In computing the strength of columns the two inches of concrete nearest the surface shall be deducted from the area of the concrete. The connecting of beams and girders to columns shall be made with suitable angle braces.

Reinforced concrete beams and girders shall be designed so that the reinforcing shall carry the full tensile stress and no tensile stress shall be taken by the concrete. The concrete may be estimated to carry direct compression not to exceed five hundred pounds per square inch. The net area of reinforcing steel in beams and girders shall be not less than three-fourths of one percent of the area of the concrete in cross section, and the concrete below the neutral axis of the steel reinforcing members shall be deducted from the area of concrete.

Reinforcing steel shall be imbedded in concrete so that the thickness of concrete covering outside of steel shall be as follows: For flat slabs not less than three-fourths of an inch; for columns, beams and girders not less than two inches; for foundation not less than three inches at sides and top and six inches at bottom.

The axes of several columns acting continuously throughout two or more stories shall accurately coincide.

All reinforcing steel for curtain walls, beams, girders, columns and foundations shall be mechanical bond steel bars, and when it is necessary to splice reinforcing members the lap or splice shall be not less than twenty-four diameters, provided that in no case shall the reinforcing members of beams or girders be spliced.

Section 3. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force on and after its final passage.

I hereby certify that the foregoing ordinance was duly passed and adopted by the Council of the City of Richmond at a regular meeting thereof held on the 22nd day of April, 1929, by the following votes:

Ayes: Councilmen Scott, Hinkley, Feuner, Paulsen, Collins, Martin, Black, Harnett and Chandler.

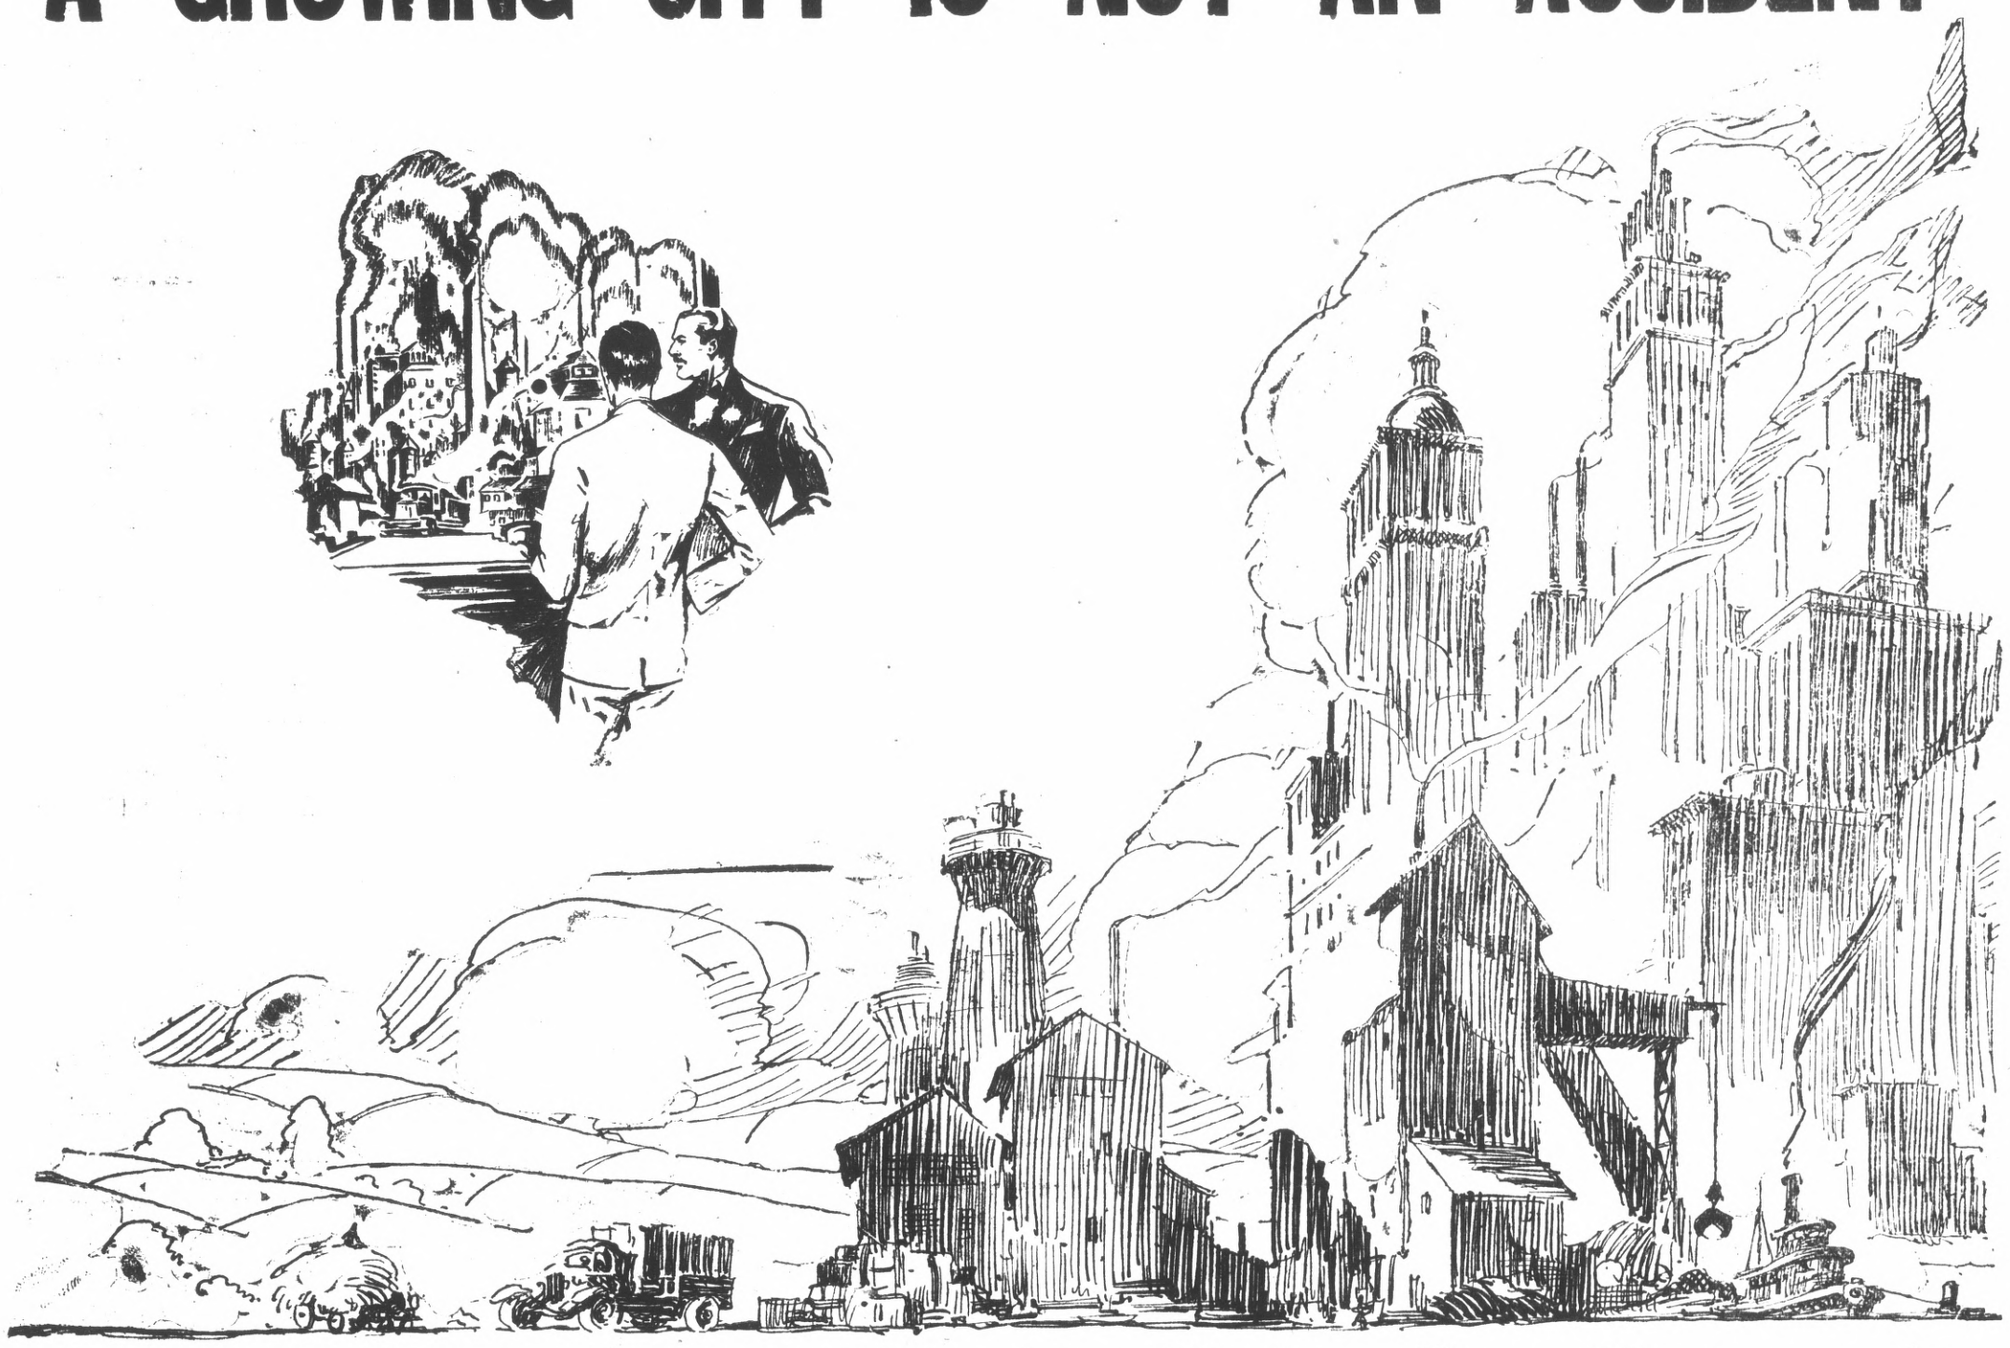
A GROWING CITY IS NOT AN ACCIDENT



The Right Type Of Citizens Make Our Prosperity

You have heard of "Ghost cities" the kind that spring up quickly, the result of some boom such as a gold strike, oil strike and the like. Alaska is full of just that type of cities. Cities like that are built on thin air—there is nothing substantial about them—when the boom dies out, the city dies just as quickly as it was born.

Richmond is not of those ghost cities. Our city is not built on sands of chance, but on good strong industrial and financial bedrock. Then, too, we have the right sort of citizens here that would make any city thrive and forge ahead.

The average American city or community is its own poorest salesman. People are prone to keep their eyes beyond the horizon and to regard some other place more progressive and more desirable as a place to live. It is all a matter of mind. If enough of the inhabitants of a community think that things are good enough as they are and are not willing to expend any time, money or effort to improve their condition there is a strong tendency to keep the rest of the public in an inferior state of mind. Thus the best efforts of a handful of livewires are defeated.

Here and there cities give evidence of having enough of a certain type of citizens with vision and energy to make them noticeable. THEY GROW AND PROSPER—INDUSTRIES ARE EASILY ATTRACTED TO THEM and the material prosperity makes for more and better homes, better advantages, and a worthwhile place to live. RICHMOND IS JUST THAT SORT OF A CITY—WE ARE ATTRACTING NEW RESIDENTS AND INDUSTRIES AND MAKING PROGRESS.

The business houses and professional men represented at the bottom of this page have the vision of building up the city from the inside first. That is convincing to people already living here and sooner or later we will reap the harvest of our natural advantages with an increased population and greater prosperity.

RICHMOND is a city of attractive homes—a wonderful place to live and work—We have wide paved streets —a wonderful POLICE and FIRE DEPARTMENT and the finest schools in the country—every advantage is here—and above all RICHMOND is considered one of the healthiest places in all AMERICA. Government records show that the death rate here is the lowest of all the cities

These pages are intended to stimulate your imagination and bring to your attention all that RICHMOND has that should be appreciated—to get you to talk enthusiastically and incessantly about it. We want you to see and realize the advantages of this growing prosperous city.

DO YOUR PART. BE A BOOSTER, HELP YOUR CITY GROW AND PROSPER.

OAKS WALLOP SOLONS IN SECOND

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24—(U.P.)—Less than a game separated the league-leading San Francisco Missions and the second place Los Angeles Angels tonight after the southerners scored their second straight victory over the leaders, 12 to 6, to feature the Pacific Coast league today.

The Angels were ahead, 9 to 3, at the end of the sixth inning so three runs by the Missions did not bother them.

San Francisco's Seals regained third place by defeating Hollywood, 10 to 2, while Oakland was trimming their predecessors, the Sacramento Senators, 10 to 6. Portland gained [illegible] victory over Seattle [illegible] series to retain [illegible] title for the present.

Heavy hitting was featured by six of the eight teams, the Seals pounding out 16 safeties, of Angeles 15 and Oakland 14. The Senators made 14 but they were scattered. Portland had 10 and the Missions 9.

Bodie Andrews To Resign Post

MORAGA, April 24—F. A. "Bodie" Andrews, line coach for St. Mary's football squad will tender his resignation to "Slip" Madigan, head coach, when the latter returns from southern California next week, it was learned today.

Andrews has served as line coach for the last six years and when not coaching has devoted his time to selling real estate. It is the pressure of this business that is given by Andrews as his reason for resigning.

Soon after graduation from Notre Dame, where he was All-American member of the football team, Andrews coached the St. Mary's high school eleven for several years. He was later selected as line coach.

and Jack F. Ormsby, both of Los Angeles.

Federal authorities said that neither had been connected with the prohibition service for some months. They were said to have told Constable E. E. Cummings of Lancaster that they were seeking a still to raid when they got "back on the job."

The two former agents told Cummings that they drove into Kern county, near Dry Lake, and went to the Taylor ranch. There they met Chulla and when they left he and a companion followed, said. As the automobiles drew together both sides began firing and when Chulla's body fell to the ground his partner fled, they declared.

Constable Cummings said that the two men wanted to call prohibition headquarters. Field Agent Peters, of the prohibition department said that Chenoweth was discharged 18 months ago for cause and that Ormsby was dropped last December for failure to pass a civil service examination. Their business on the trip was no federal, he said.

4 MAJOR SPORT TITLES WON BY BEARS

BERKELEY, April 24.— With four major sport titles won since college opened last fall, students and alumni of the University of California are beginning to realize that Golden Bear athletes have just completed one of the most successful years in four decades of intercollegiate competition. No other major university in the west can boast of the uniform success which California teams have met with since the annual campaign for honors opened last September.

The California football team tied with Southern California for the Pacific Coast Conference football title, and was chosen to represent the west against the east at Pasadena in the annual Rose Bowl New Year's day game.

The Bears cleaned up in basketball for the fifth time in six years when they won the Pacific Coast conference cage title from the University of Washington in straight games in the play-off series at Seattle.

Most impressive, perhaps, was the showing of the California crew, which maintained the prestige acquired by its victory at the Olympic Games when it defeated the University of Washington varsity eight by six lengths on the Oakland estuary April 13 to retain for the third successive year the Pacific intercollegiate crew title.

The most recent honor came to the Bears when the baseball team won the championship of the California Intercollegiate Baseball association, beating Stanford in three straight games and winning all five series played with the membership of the league.

All four teams have trips scheduled for them in the near future. The California crew will leave early in June for Poughkeepsie, where they will defend their national rowing title, while the varsity nine will leave May 8 for Japan and Hawaii, where they will play two six-weeks summer baseball schedules.

The California football squad will travel to Philadelphia in October for a game with Pennsylvania, while the basketeers will play Kansas in Kansas City early in January, 1930.

Full Squad To Represent High At Track Meet

Coach Eddie Caine will enter a full squad of 25 men in the four corned track meet to be held Friday afternoon at the California oval. Richmond, University, Roosevelt and McClymonds high schools will be entered in the meet.

Caine's entrants will include: Albert, Baxter, Young in the mile Bergen, Dunleavy, Drexel in the half mile; Gordon, Ford, Hall in the 440; Warrenberg, Dalton, Freese in the 220; Warrenberg, Long, Bowman in the 100; Bracco Lamb, Bravin in the low hurdles; Bracco, Carson, O'Connell in the high hurdles; Carson, Babich, Bravin in the discus; Gordon, Maloney, Freese, in the broad jump; Jackson, Bracco, Long, Freese and O'Connell in the pole vault; Soventino, Pleich, Bracco in the high jump, and the relay squad to be selected from Hurley, Gordon, Warrenberg, Dalton, Freese and any of the above.

Elks Preparing Golf Tournament

The Richmond Elks are preparing plans for their annual golf tournament to be held in the near future.

Fred Caudle has been named chairman of the event. More than 25 entries have been received.

Play will start Saturday and scores will be turned in to the tournament committee on Monday.

John Valianos of San Francisco shortstop, will be skipper of the Bear baseballers. He is one of the best infielders ever developed at California, and adds good batting performance to his fielding ability.

CHRONIC CASE OF SORE LEG; LIMB TURNED BLACK; AMPUTATION FORESTALLED BY FONG WAN HERBS

FONG WAN

To Whom It May Concern:
Oakland, Cal.
About 15 years ago I underwent an operation that left my leg in an ulcerated condition from which I suffered a great deal. I treated with many healers, but got no relief. One wanted to operate on the leg; another wanted to amputate it.
About two and one-half years ago my leg turned black and I was not able to wear a hoe. A friend told me about Fong Wan, so I consulted him. After following his instructions as to diet and taking the herbs that he compounded now after eleven months my leg is in normal condition, and I am in perfect health.

PROBLEMS OF CITY BEFORE CHAMBER

"However, I can say that the conferences held during the past few weeks, and the letters which have been exchangd, indicate to my mind that a number of these eastern concerns are definitely interested in what Richmond has to offer and I know this city can meet their demands."

Ferry Landing

Some time ago the Southern Pacific company informed the chamber directors that when conditions were such that the move would be possible, ferries on the Richmond-San Francisco run would use a slip at the Northwestern Pacific end of the San Francisco ferry building. At the present time the ferries are forced to cross the entire ferry lane both in entering the slip and leaving for the Richmond run.

The secretary of the chamber was instructed to write a letter to the Southern Pacific officials and urge them to make the change as soon as possible. With recent ferry mergers it is understood the changes are contemplated in the use of various slips at the San Francisco ferry building. With the change in slips to the Northwestern end of the building for the Richmond line it would save a great deal of time in the present schedule.

Harbor Opening

Further discussion on the fetes to be held in honor of the opening of the new facility on the inner harbor was held at the session. The first of these is to be a get together dinner to be held at the Hotel Carquinez on June 28, the committee in charge of this event is headed by J. A. McVittie, city manager.

Another dinner will be held at the Berkeley Golf and Country club a few days later. E. M. Downer is chairman of the committee in charge of this event at which officials of steamship lines, shippers and others who may avail themselves of the use of the local facilities will be invited as guests.

The last of the celebrations will be held some time in September when the entire wharf is completed. F. M. Chandler, traffic manager of the Certain-teed Products company heads the committee which will arrange for this event.

I. D. E. S. Conclave

Aubrey Wilson, chairman of the chamber committee for the I. D. E. S. convention reported to the directors that satisfactory progress was being made on the plans for the entertainment of the visitors here in September.

The civic affairs committee of the chamber of commerce, and a group from the city council is actively engaged in working out plans for the conclave in conjunction with officials of the lodge.

Airport

In addition to his work in interviewing officials of industries in the east Parr will make a determined effort to interest War Department officials in a local site for the proposed Pacific coast air base of the army.

Maps were presented at a meeting of the aviation committee of the chamber yesterday morning in which several proposed sites were laid out. These maps with a report by E. A. Hoffman, city engineer, are in Parr's possession and will be presented to the proper authorities in Washington.

East Richmond Bus

The possible suspension of the bus service in the east Richmond district was brought before the directors of the chamber by A. L. Paulsen who pointed out the grave situation that would exist if that section of the city is cut off from transportation.

According to a report made before the council last Monday night the present operator of the bus line is losing money on the service and has asked for relief.

A committee from the chamber will attempt to work out a route for the bus which it is hoped will do away with a deficit in operation

Bay Barrier

E. B. Bull appealed to the directors and all others interested and able to go to attend a session held in Sacramento last night on the bay barrier plan. According to Bull, the issue which is of vital importance to Richmond and all parts of Contra Costa county is meeting stiff opposition.

Among those from Richmond who left here last night for the state capital to assist in fighting for the barrier are: Mayor Mattie A. Chandler, E. A. Hoffman, city engineer, Ralph Bergen, Harry Hays and others.

AIMEE CALLED IN HARDY PROBE

peachment trial tonight when the case against Judge Carlos S. Hardy will be completed.

The decision to call Mrs. McPherson as a rebuttal witness was made by the prosecution after a conference this afternoon. Although she had been ordered to appear in Sacramento today, the evangelist was still missing shortly before the night session began.

Several sergeants at arms were scouring the vicinity for Mrs. McPherson, who has been reported at various points since yesterday.

Miss X Ready

Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Seilaff and her sister, Mrs. Virla Kimball were at the capitol ready to be used as rebuttal witnesses. Mrs. Kimball will testify to the fact that Attorney Roland Rich Woolley was a friend of the family in Salt Lake City when she and her sister attended school there, it was said. Woolley, formerly attorney for Angelus Temple, has testified that he never knew Mrs. Seilaff until she approached him with a story of being able to find a woman to pose as the "Miss X" of the Carmel episode.

Judge Hardy was still undergoing a steady cross examination when court recessed this afternoon. Assemblyman William Hornblower, conducting the examination, was endeavoring to break down the jurist's contention that he had nothing to do with "framing" the "Miss X" story with Mrs. Wiseman.

Denies Charges

The examination was a tedius uninteresting affair. Judge Hardy, carefully choosing his words and phrases, denied every one of the allegations made against him by the prosecution.

Hornblower, a skilled criminal lawyer, met his match as he fired questions at the veteran judge. The jurist recognized every question that might lead too far and he thoughtfully weighed his answers, sometimes taking half a minute before he began a reply to one of Hornblower's questions.

The judge displayed an entire change in his attitude today over the direct questioning by his own attorney's yesterday. Their questions were given in an almost apologetic manner, and the judge answered as though he were conducting proceedings from his own bench.

Judge Questioned

Hornblower questioned the accused judge as though he were conducting a criminal case in police court. The assemblyman strode up and down in front of Judge Hardy, firing questions at him in an accusing tone.

The judge answered, at times with a somewhat aggrieved air and then again with an indignant attitude. There were few objections from Judge Hardy's attorneys to questions asked of him. Hornblower stuck closely to the line laid out by the defense yesterday.

Late Session

Little of significance was brought out in the afternoon testimony of Judge Hardy. He admitted the meeting with Mrs. Sielaff at his home on August 1, 1926. He admitted that he arranged to meet with her later in San Francisco. Told of his attempt to find her in San Francisco on his arrival there late in August, but steadfastly denied that he was engaged in "framing" a "Miss X" story during all these meetings.

The senate court is expected to be in session until after midnight tonight. A vote on the impeachment articles will probably come late tomorrow, according to attorneys for both sides who say they will conclude their arguments by four o'clock.

Articles From Foreign Lands At Grant Display

Articles from foreign lands will be exhibited at the Grant school today in observance of public schools week. The exhibit will start at 1:30 and will close at 3:10.

Handmade articles from Africa, Holland, Spain and Mexico will be placed on display. The exhibit will be guarded by a group of Boy Scouts.

ARMY AVIATOR BLAMED FOR CRASH

U S aviator—pg 1 top .... jp

SAN DIEGO, April 24—(U.P.)—Lieut. G. H. Keefer, whose plane crashed into a Maddux passenger liner here Sunday, was held responsible by a coroner's jury today for the tragedy which cost his own life and five others.

The jury found that the army flier had been "criminally negligent" and that the mishap was caused by his "violation of the rules of the air."

More than a dozen witnesses testified and while their versions of the exact manner in which the accident occurred varied, all agreed that Lieut. Keefer had violated air rules.

They testified that he had been flying closer to the Maddux plane than 300 feet. The crash occurred when Lieut. Keefer's plane hurtled into the passenger craft, ripping away part of a wing and a motor. Lieut. Keefer, two pilots of the liner and three Maddux passengers were killed.

Lieut. D. W. Tomlinson, formerly of the navy's famous three "Sea Hawks," and now a vice president of the Maddux company, testified that he believed both Maddux pilots were killed at the moment of collision.

He said that inspection of the two wrecked planes indicated the propellor of the army ship had smashed through the cockpit of the liner. Tomlinson drew the conclusion that there was little chance that either of the two Maddux pilots, Maurice Murphy and Louis D. Pratt, escaped the blade.

Plane Stunting

The notes of Cecelia Kelly, a Phoenix, Ariz., newspaper reporter who died in the fall of the passenger craft, were introduced at the inquest. Her silent testimony came in the words, "Army plane stunting — near Mexico," which she had jotted down. They were taken to mean that Lieut. Keefer had been stunting and that San Diego is near the Mexican border.

Representatives of the district attorney's office, army officials and the city board of air control attended the inquest. Ten witnesses said that they noted no engine trouble on Keefer's plane and believed that he misjudged the distance between the ships.

The army investigation, being made by a board at Rockwell Field, continued today, but was not expected to gain impetus until Thursday because today was occupied by the inquest.

Narcotics Taken In S. F. Prison

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24—(U.P.)—Narcotics valued at $500 were seized at the city jail here today while ther were being transferred to prisoners.

The contraband was in six rubber finger guards. A prisoner had stooped to pick up one of the finger guards when Dennis O'Neill, jail superintendent, grabbed him and made him forfeit it. An investigation was started at once to determine identity of the smuggler and the method used to acquaint prisoners with the plot.

school has its Parent Teachers' Association. These have done wonderful work. The philanthropy chairman and her committee have a room at the Lincoln school, where clothing is gathered and prepared for poor families. Milk is provided for children. In many other ways, assistance is rendered which promotes a more regular attendance.

In the Richmond system particular attention is being paid to the organization of classes so that the best interests of the child may be served. In all elementary schools special attention is given to the grouping of children according to ability. Effort is made to provide curriculum content that will meet with the needs of the individual child. Teachers are given an opportunity to experiment in all modern teaching methods.

At the present time, committees of teachers are at work organizing a course of study that will provide better aid in counseling children. This new course provides for the work from kindergarten through elementary, junior high school and high school. Under it a child will make continuous progression without unnecessary duplication. Courses taught in one school will lead to work provided in the next school.

The enrollment in Richmond at the present time is as follows:

Kindergarten	342
Elementary	3070
Junior High	1286
Senior High	945
Part-time	156
Americanization	169

FATHERS, SONS NIGHT SET AT CHURCH

A large crowd was present last evening at the special services held at the Community Methodist church, Twenty-first street and Roosevelt avenues. Rev. A. I. Townsley, evangelist, of San Francisco is conducting revival services at the church every night this week with the exception of Saturday.

Last night was Mothers and Daughters night. A solo composed by Rev. Townsley entitled "My Mother" was sung by Rev. Forman, pastor.

Tonight Rev. Townsley will speak to fathers and sons and will take as his sermon "Men of Valour." A male quartet will sing during the half hour of music. One of their numbers will be "Tell Mother I'll Be There."

The public is invited to attend and hear Rev. Townsley who will preach tonight, Friday night and at both services Sunday. The Children's Day program scheduled to be held Sunday has been postponed until next Sunday on account of these special services.
